Frenchmen Drift Across Atlantic in A Small Log Raft India's Representative Says Egypt Will Reject Proposal as Suggested by Secretary Dulles

Falmouth, England, (AP)—Three bearded Frenchmen stepped ashore from a log raft today after an epic 89-day drift across the Atlantic from Canada. They said they'd go home "in a big boat."

Hundreds of vacationers cheered as the raft L'Egare II—"The Lost One"—glided peacefully under tow into this Cornish port at the end of the 3,000-mile journey.

"We are crazy Frenchmen, yes?" yelled Henri Beaudot, 29-year-old leader of the expedition.

Beaudot and three companions set out on their 13 by 17-foot raft of rope-tied cedar logs from Halifax, N. S., May 24. One man sickened 380 miles out in the Atlantic and a fishing boat took him back to Canada. Gaston Vanacker, 31, and Marc Modena, 27, made it across with their leader.

Two kittens also made the voyage.

A small cabin covered with a tarpaulin was the voyagers' only shelter, a small sail all they had to help out the Gulf Stream.

"It was not too unpleasant, except in the worst of gales," Vanacker reported. "But we have done what we set out to do, which was to allow the Gulf Stream to carry us across the Atlantic using the minimum of sail."

All three men sported 30-day beards.

TRAFFIC FATALITY

Pittsburgh, (AP)—Paul Romagn, 37, struck by a car near his home in Pittsburgh's Oakland section last night, died early today in Montefiore Hospital. The driver, Samuel De Frances, 17, of Oakland, was charged with manslaughter. He was released on $1,000 bond pending a coroner's hearing.

Ed Sullivan Is Back In Hospital With Congestion of Lung

New Haven, Conn., (AP)—Ed Sullivan, nationally syndicated newspaper columnist and television personality, entered Grace-New Haven Community Hospital last night to be treated for what the hospital described as "some congestion in the lower right lobe of his lung." His condition is not serious.

The hospital said: "His recuperation from a recent auto accident was interrupted by an elevation of temperature, and he was transferred from his Southbury home to the hospital. He is not in serious distress and his removal to the hospital is made primarily in order to take advantage of the diagnostic facilities there because of some congestion in the lower right lobe of his lung." Sullivan and three others were injured in a two-car accident early Aug. 6 in Seymour and spent nearly two weeks at Griffin Hospital, Derby.

Directors Announce Goal For 1956 Community Chest $66,500

The 1956 campaign for the Warren Community Chest, Inc., will seek a goal of $66,500 on behalf of its ten member agencies. This amount is 7 per cent more than the 1955 goal of $62,000 and will enable the Chest to allot additional necessary funds to some of the agencies who have increased operating costs.

The budget for next year's Chest and the campaign dates of October 15 to 22 were established Monday afternoon at a meeting of the Community Chest board of directors held in the offices of the Community Consumer Discount Co. Marion Pettigrew, Chest President, presided at the session and called on Byron Knapp, chairman of the Budget Committee to make his report.

Mr. Knapp said that his committee had met with each of the ten participating agencies to discuss their programs and their financial needs for the year 1957. After many meetings the budget com-

London (AP)—The Western Big Three made a concentrated drive for Asian and Middle Eastern support of their proposal for international operation of the Suez Canal today, but India's V. K. Krishna Menon warned that Egypt would reject the plan.

Menon, who visited President Nasser in Cairo before coming to the conference, told a press conference the Western plan was "entirely impracticable."

The Indian envoy yesterday put a compromise proposal before the 22-nation conference called to deal with the Suez dispute. The Indian plan would give Egypt full control of the 103-mile waterway, with an international body to act only in a consultative and advisory capacity.

Menon said the plan presented by Secretary of State Dulles—for an international board to operate the canal with Egyptian participation—in effect would internationalize the present canal company. Nasser announced July 26 Egypt had nationalized the canal company.

An authoritative Egyptian source in London declined comment on the U. S. and Indian plans. But he said Egypt is satisfied "the British and French are having second thoughts about the use of force."

In Cairo, however, the authoritative newspaper Al Akhbar said India's proposals were generally acceptable to Egypt. The paper gave a chilly reception to the U. S. plan.

The paper said Egypt does not object to Menon's proposed guarantees of the interests of canal users.

Al Akhbar mentioned Menon's proposal for setting up an advisory body of canal users but did not say specifically this was acceptable to Egypt.

The reply of the British, French and Americans was to arrange separate talks today with almost every Asian and Middle Eastern delegation chief at the conference. British Prime Minister Eden invited Menon to lunch.

Russia, Indonesia and Ceylon appeared certain to side with India in opposition to the Western plan. But Western diplomats were guardedly optimistic that at least 16 nations attending the conference would support the plan presented by Dulles.

'Save Route 6' Committee Planning Further Action

A report on briefs being prepared arguing the necessity of maintaining Route 6 in the federal interstate highway system was presented at a meeting of "Save Route 6" executive committee Friday at Hotel Emery in Bradford.

The committee voted to solicit funds to promote its fight and it was announced a meeting of the full committee, being organized across the state, would be held in Erie at a later date.

Charles Tranter and B. S. Knabenshue were on hand to represent the Warren Chamber of Commerce which is fighting Governor Leader's backing of the move to supplant Route 6 with a federal thruway from Stroudsburg to Sharon.

EXPLOSION IN HOME

Mount Pleasant, (AP)—Mrs. Rose Rydel, 56, died early today several hours after an explosion rocked the basement of her home. Her husband, Frank, 58, was burned about the face, arms and chest. He was reported in serious condition at Frick Memorial Hospital. The couple was in the basement when the blast hit last night. Cause of the explosion was not determined immediately. Firemen estimated damage at $10,000.

CALIF. FOR DICK

San Francisco, (AP)—The 70-member California delegation, with Gov. Goodwin J. Knight still a holdout, voted today to endorse Vice President Nixon for renomination.

Knight, long at odds with Nixon, contended, as he has all along, that the delegates should not commit themselves on the vice presidency in the absence of a specific endorsement by President Eisenhower. The resolution was approved by a thunderous voice vote.

Serving on this year's budget committee with Mr. Knapp were Mrs. Perrin, Mr. Dunham, Mr. Elmquist and Mr. Harrington.

Guardsmen Preparing For Governor's Day

Indiantown Gap, (AP)—Units of the 28th National Guard Division today practiced drill field maneuvers in preparation for the annual Governor's Day Review Saturday.

The division's four artillery battalions were busy preparing for battery tests, while the 103rd Engineer Battalion continued construction of a timber trestle bridge.

Stevenson Planning Heavy Use of Auto Caravans for Votes

BULLETIN

Libertyville, Ill., (AP)—Adlai Stevenson today accused Republican Keynote Gov. Arthur Langlie of having "shamelessly confused facts and falsehoods" in his address to the GOP National Convention last night. He said Gov. Langlie accused him in 1952 of having run up a large deficit in Illinois when he actually "left the state with a large treasury balance" without raising general revenue taxes. "I recall no apology from the gentleman and last night's performance did not enhance my respect for his accuracy."

Libertyville, Ill., (AP)—Adlai Stevenson has decided to pin his hopes for the presidency primarily on dawn-to-midnight automobile tours reaching into most of the towns and villages of doubtful status.

The Democratic presidential nominee was reported to have decided that heavy emphasis on automobile caravans will enable him to reach the greatest number of people at the smallest possible cost.

The former Illinois governor worked today on the broad outline of the major addresses he will deliver in key appearances in a grueling campaign leading up to the eve of the election.

His campaign director, James A. Finnegan, has booked six nationwide 30-minute television talks starting Sept. 13 and 89 five-minute spot TV programs, most featuring talks by Stevenson.

Stevenson has accepted an invitation to address a $50-a-plate fund-raising dinner in Harrisburg, Pa., next month and there were indications this may be his first major television address.

His staff here said he also is weighing decisions on whether to address a Labor rally at Detroit Sept. 3, an appearance before the American Legion convention later that week, and an appearance Sept. 11 before the Liberal party in New York.

Stevenson is keenly aware that committees can provide automobile caravans for the cheapest possible movement into communities.

Martin Sounds Battle Call To Regain Control of Congress

By FRED S. HOFFMAN

San Francisco (AP)—Republicans were summoned today to "work and fight" to regain control of Congress and "eliminate the political opposition that has prevented the drama of Republican progress from being played to the fullest."

That call to battle was sounded by House Republican Leader Joseph W. Martin Jr. of Massachusetts in a speech prepared for his installation late today as permanent chairman of the GOP National Convention.

"The setback suffered in 1954 when the control of Congress slipped from our hands will not happen again," Martin said.

"Never again must we allow complacency to become the plague of our political faith."

Martin, who was speaker of the House when the GOP held a majority there in 1947-1948 and 1953-1954, said America needs a Republican Congress "just as it must have and is going to have a Republican president and vice president for the next four years."

The Massachusetts Republican, presiding over his fifth party convention, predicted that "millions of Democrats and independent voters" would join with the GOP this fall and "share with us in this election victory in 1956."

Martin dwelt at length on what he said were the accomplishments of the Republicans in the fields of "peace, progress and prosperity" since the Eisenhower administration took office in 1953.

At no point did he directly mention the Democratic party, but he said that "for many years prior to our victory in 1952, we struggled as a minority party to overturn . . . those forces bent on creating an alien, socialist state in America."

Former Illinois State Auditor Now Languishes in Cell

Chester, Ill., (AP)—Former State Auditor Orville E. Hodge, free-sending state official who once aspired to the governor's chair, today surveyed the cold regulated life of Menard Prison as inmate No. 25303.

Hodge, once a leader in the Republican administration, entered Menard last night. Earlier in the day, he was sentenced to serve 12 to 15 years after pleading guilty to charges of taking $637,000 in state funds in a check-writing scandal that involved more than a dozen state and federal investigations.

Hodge, 61, appeared dazed and glassy eyed on arrival at the prison. He was given his first prison meal and remarked to newsmen that he felt "much better."

Hodge's sentencing in Springfield by Judge Smith was his second in five days. On Aug. 15 he received a 20-year sentence from U. S. Dist. Judge John P. Barnes in Chicago after entering a guilty plea of mishandling $872,000 in federally insured bank funds.

Ten years of the federal sentence will be eliminated if he makes full restitution to the state.

Senator Declares Pa. Delegation Has "No Difficulties"

By HAROLD V. STREETER

San Francisco (AP)—Sen. Edward Martin today expressed confidence that his Pennsylvania delegation will vote 70-0 both for Eisenhower and Nixon tomorrow.

He said this was the first Republican National Convention in more than 30 years in which the state's delegates brought with them no serious difficulties.

"Except for 1929, I've been at every Republican convention since 1924, and I've never seen such a situation as this," said Martin, the delegation chairman.

"It's so good I almost wonder if it isn't too good."

The Pennsylvania delegation, in the second of two convention sessions on opening day yesterday, was flanked by two of Nixon's supporters. In a box looking down on the delegation sat the vice president's wife. The Pennsylvanians joined in a noisy ovation which greeted her introduction by GOP Chairman Leonard Hall.

In a seat immediately in front of the Pennsylvanians was a man who attracted a veritable army of photographers—Massachusetts Gov. Christian Herter, who will place Nixon's name in nomination Wednesday. Herter is being pushed, unwillingly, by presidential adviser Harold Stassen for the vice presidential nomination.

The Pennsylvania delegation called a breakfast caucus this morning before going to the Cow Palace to hear a floor report on the 1956 party platform.

Speak up, good and loud, on election day—and no one can ever speak down to you.

One thing we all know—every vote is vital. It shows the world how much we believe in this democracy of ours.

Don't miss your say-so. Be sure you're registered—and speak up on election day!

GET READY, by registering.

GET SET, by knowing what you're voting for. Then—GO VOTE!

DELEGATES AWAIT EXECUTIVE WITH ALL SIGNS INDICATING NIXON NEXT 'RUNNING MATE'

Washington (AP)—A beaming President Eisenhower headed today for San Francisco where the Republican National Convention eagerly waited to nominate him for a second term.

An overnight rain had let up but the skies were overcast as Eisenhower took off at 12:16 p. m. aboard his private plane Columbine III.

There was no indication whether he would have something to say publicly or privately about the question of a running mate.

Whatever role the President may take in filling the No. 2 spot however, all signs pointed to the convention renominating Vice President Nixon.

Eisenhower smiled happily as he arrived at the military terminal at Washington National Airport.

He picked up each of his four grandchildren and kissed them goodbye. To grandson David, he said, "Hey, where did you get that sweater?" It was bright red.

Eisenhower was described by his personal physician, Maj. Gen. Howard Snyder, as feeling "on top of the world."

Eisenhower was dressed in a brown suit and tie. Mrs. Eisenhower was entirely in gray.

The presidential party left the White House in a cavalcade to the applause of about 150 tourists who had waited at the southwest gate.

He waved and smiled from the car as onlookers yelled "Goodbye Ike," and "Here we go, Ike."

Traffic in both directions had been halted by police all the way from the White House, down Constitution Ave., across Memorial Bridge and thence along the Mt. Vernon Parkway to the airport.

At each corner small crowds had collected and halted motorists stepped out of cars to watch and wave.

San Francisco (AP)—President Eisenhower comes to town today to put his personal touch on a Republican convention geared to renominate him and Vice President Nixon.

In advance of his scheduled arrival late in the day, leaders of key state delegations reported they had received telephoned invitations from the White House to call on him.

Some said they felt certain there would be no discussion of Harold E. Stassen's languishing campaign to dump Nixon from the ticket.

In fact, a surge of Nixon strength among delegates made it appear that the time had passed when the vice president could be sidetracked by anything other than direct presidential word that Eisenhower didn't want him.

No one expected that Eisenhower has said he would be delighted to have Nixon on any ticket with him but has not excluded the possibility that he might be satisfied with another candidate.

Nickson's strategists said they had completed a check of delegations which indicated that, even if Eisenhower should say that some others are likewise acceptable to him, the vice president would win renomination hands down.

One by one the men named as possibilities by Stassen took themselves out of the picture. Gov. Theodore R. McKeldin of Maryland said he won't let his name be presented to the convention.

While Gov. Goodwin J. Knight of California has not categorically eliminated himself, Sen. William F. Knowland, the Senate's minority leader, predicted California will place its 70 votes squarely behind (Turn to Page Seven)

Tomorrow is the date set for the pre-final inspection of Northern Area's Eisenhower High School on the Russell-Lander road, school board reports from the building committee showing the structure more than 90% completed.

Equipment bids have been opened and contracts let, and it is expected some of this material will be arriving within the next two weeks.

Opening date for the new school year has been postponed until Wednesday, September 12, for the elementary schools of Lander, Russell and Sugar Grove, and to Friday, September 14, for the high school, thus allowing time for readying of all school facilities.

"Peace, Prosperity, Progress" Is Slogan of G. O. P. Keynote

San Francisco (AP)—Arthur B. Langlie, of Washington, has set the keynote of the Republican National Convention: "Peace, prosperity and progress."

Langlie, giving the convention's stemwinding speech late yesterday, told delegates:

"We are here to pledge to the American people four more years of honest, efficient administration . . . four more years of our crusade for a finer America in a better world under the competent, steadfast, forthright leadership of Dwight D. Eisenhower."

Langlie denounced the Democrats as corrupt and divided. He warmly praised the Republicans as bringers of "peace, prosperity and progress."

The 56-year-old governor, who is running for the U. S. Senate in Washington against Democratic Sen. Warren Magnuson, was presented by Sen. William F. Knowland of California, who also lambasted the Democrats.

Both Langlie and Knowland lit into the Democratic keynote at Chicago last week—Gov. Frank G. Clement of Tennessee.

Obviously referring to Clement's hot brand of oratory, Langlie said the GOP's job is to give the people leadership "not to give 'em hell." Langlie drew a big laugh when he imitated Clement's style at the outset of his talk—"How long, O America, will we keep our Republican administration in Washington?"

Then he replied to the question with great vigor and seriousness: "The American people will, I believe, and I hope, throw the Republicans out of office the day when, if ever, they copy the Democrats and put the party first and America second."

Knowland praised Vice President Nixon, with whom he had been at odds politically until recently, and Secretary of State Dulles, with whom he has often disagreed. He called Nixon an able assistant to President Eisenhower. He called Dulles "great."

BARGING ALONG TO PROFITS—In an unusual five-hour moving job, the two houses seen above were transported by barge from Cleveland, Ohio, 50 miles along Lake Erie to Huron, Ohio, where they were placed on lots for sale at a nice profit to the enterprising mover. The houses were up-to-the-minute remodeled homes, used in Cleveland to publicize a remodeling campaign. Mural & Son House Moving Company bought them from the campaign sponsor for $2,000 apiece. They are being sold in Huron for $8,500 apiece, exclusive of lot.

ARAB LEAGUE RALLIES BEHIND NASSER—As representatives of 22 powers in London sought a solution of the Suez Canal crisis, leaders of the 11-state Arab League worked furiously to rally their millions of Arabs to the banner of Egypt's President Gamal Abdel Nasser. Egypt believes that the friendship and support of its Arab neighbors is its greatest source of strength in international affairs. The League, shown on map above, could be the core to which other Arab states might adhere, bringing into existence a long-time Arab dream—a United Arab States of the Middle East. It has been said that Nasser's eventual ambition is to be the "strong man" heading and directing such a coalition.

Annual Moose Band Picnic Proves To Be Usual Success

For the eleventh year the sun shined brightly on the annual picnic of the Loyal Order of Moose Band. The enjoyable outing was again held at the spacious Leidy Williams Estate on Jackson Run Road.

Starting with the traditional picnic dinner served tureen style featuring a juicy baked ham and continuing well into the evening the program of events held everyones interest, young and old alike.

The title of guest coming the farthest distance again went to Paul Morganroth of West Virginia who will be remembered as the first president of the band. Paul plans his trip for the gala event each year and hasn't missed one yet. He will also appear with the band this weekend when they plan a concert Friday night as part of the huge celebration in Tidoute.

As a direct result of the picnic the ladies of the group, composed mainly of the members wives voted to form an auxiliary to take care of committee work and also to furnish a much needed color guard. The first meeting of this group will be held this Thursday night on the fourth floor of the Moose Home. All interested persons are urged to be in attendance.

Last evening the finishing touches were put on the concert program to be offered by the band in concert Friday night at 8 p. m. on the ball diamond in Tidoute. All members are expected to be at the concert location no later than 7:45. Those needing a ride are asked to call Leidy Williams. Uniform will be the usual brown with Moose tie, brown socks, and hat. An enjoyable program will be presented with novelty numbers, semi-classics, and the usual stirring martial selections.

Horse Adventure on Trestle a Lesson To Other Riders

The Friday episode of horse and trestle at Russell, when divested of story angles, pointed up a few lessons in sensible deportment for your horsemen everywhere.

In the first place, we are informed, the young ladies had been requested to confine their riding to the Wetherby property and not drive the animals onto strange ground.

Attempting to take one of God's noblest creatures across a railroad trestle is little short of foolhardy. But on the credit side of a ledger must be noted that the many youngsters attracted to the scene would certainly think twice before attempting the feat themselves.

The wild thrashing of a horse fighting for its life is a dangerous, as well as pitiable, sight. The many Russell residents who tried to free the terrified horses unharmed risked their own lives as sharp hooves flew with the frenzied movements of the animal to free itself.

Dr. David Rice, who administered a sedative to the animal during rescue attempts, Willard Weatherby who owned the horse and tried to save it, and a group of others who worked at the difficult and dangerous task are a selfless group who performed a job well in trying to save a helpless creature.

The President's Prayer

Cow Palace, San Francisco (P)—A prayer written by President Eisenhower was read by screen star Irene Dunne at the close of last night's session of the Republican convention.

The President offered it at the beginning of his inaugural address in 1953.

The prayer: "Almighty God, as we stand here at this moment we beseech that Thou make full and complete our dedication to the service of the people in this throng and their fellow citizens everywhere.

"Give us, we pray, the power to discern clearly right from wrong, and allow all our words and actions to be governed thereby and by the laws of this land.

"Especially we pray that our concern shall be for all the people, regardless of station, race or calling. May cooperation be permitted and be the mutual aim of those who, under the concept of our Constitution, hold to differing political beliefs so that all may work for the good of our beloved country, and for Thy glory. Amen."

LETTERS TO EDITOR

Editor, Times-Mirror, Warren, Pennsylvania

Dear Sir:—If there is to be a canal between the Ohio River and Lake Erie to help handle freight coming and going on the St. Lawrence Seaway, it should be built up the Allegheny River and go to Lake Erie via Warren, Pa., and Jamestown, N. Y., rather than up through eastern Ohio.

There are thousands and thousands of acres along the Allegheny which are not developed in any way at all, while land along the Ohio route is already in one stage or another of development.

Take the land between Grand Valley and the river, for example. It is totally unused except by deer. If the Allegheny were canalized, this land would be put to use by agriculture or by industry and more jobs would be created. Such a canal would be a fine thing for this whole region.

4-H Club Week Thrilling Experience

WARREN County Delegation
4-H CLUB WEEK
The Pennsylvania State University

Delegates from Warren County who last week attended the 32nd annual 4-H Club Week at the Pennsylvania State University, University Park, Pa., have had a lot to tell about that experience since they returned home, according to assistant county agent, Bernard Wingert.

A very busy program of agricultural and homemaking demonstrations, judging sessions in dairy, general livestock, swine, poultry, vegetables and flowers, tours, song fests, square dancing, etc., kept the 4-H members fully occupied from morning until night. Club Week gave them the inspiration for putting into practice the 4-H motto to "Make the Best Better."

Dr. Eric A. Walker, vice president and president-elect of the University, in his welcoming address said "4-H is a part of Penn State's educational system, and the training you get will be of use to you no matter what business or profession you may enter."

Dr. H. R. Albrecht, extension director, told them "The University belongs to the people and aims to serve everyone in the Commonwealth. Its campus extends to the boundaries of the state."

Warren County delegates included Ted Bosko, David Gordon, Nancy Curtis, Myrtle Bairstow and Ardeth Bull. They were accompanied by Mrs. Geraldine Johnston, extension home economist, and Bernard Wingert, assistant county agent.

WANT RESTRICTIONS EASED.
Ann Arbor, Mich. (AP)—The men trying to make a living in Michigan's failing commercial fishing industry say the state tells them when, where and how to catch fish. They want the restrictions eased.

Some relief is expected in a decision to re-establish state hatcheries for yellow pickerel, white fish and lake trout. Commercial catches of those fish once amounted to 90 per cent of Michigan's total. Now it is only 10 per cent.

Deaf Man Perfects Cordless Hearing Aid

Worn Entirely on One Ear

Peoria, Ill. (Special)—H. A. Lyons, who himself has been hard-of-hearing for over 25 years, today announced the perfection of a miniature electronic hearing aid that is so small it is worn on one ear.

It weighs but a fraction of an ounce and can be slipped on and off easier than a pair of eye glasses. Wearer gets all-directional pick-up and normal use of telephone. There is no clothing interference because it is worn at the ear, which is the natural way to hear.

Since the aid is tiny and is worn tucked behind the ear, it is practically unnoticeable. Mr. Lyons stated that although it is powerful enough to fit the most severe hearing loss, it can also be adjusted for the millions of slightly hard-of-hearing who feel they are not deaf enough to bother with the more cumbersome aids.

It is suggested, if interested for yourself or a friend, to write to Mr. Lyons at 128 So. Monroe, Dept. ET, Peoria, Illinois, and he will be glad to send information at no cost or obligation to you.

Dry Ideas for Wet Washes

 Drip-Dry Routine Aids Homemaker ***

By KAY SHERWOOD
NEA Staff Writer

REMEMBER when the best news you could hope for on washday was the promise of a fresh breeze and a warm sun to speed the drying?

This weather report is not exactly outmoded, but as more "washables" are added to the year-around family laundry, drying procedures come up for review.

And it isn't only the rapid growth of automatic dryers that has unpinned clothes from the line.

ONE OF THE worthy aims of proper drying is to reduce the wrinkles and simplify the subsequent ironing.

To further this aim, many garments, particularly those made of man-made fibers or blends of natural fibers treated with special finishes, come with the soggy reminder to "drip dry."

We all have different standards as to the amount of wrinkling that is acceptable before we reach for the steam iron. In one study I read recently on the handling of man-made fabrics, less wrinkling resulted when garments were hand-washed and drip-dried.

"Almost as good results were obtained in machine washing (and more soil was removed) if the garment was removed before extracting the water."

TO DRIP DRY with the fewest wrinkles, clothes should be hung up on hangers and kept completely free of contact with other pieces. The use of adjustable frames, in the case of men's trousers, tends to speed up the drying and to keep the crease sharp.

To avoid ridging from hangers along the shoulder seams of coats, try sticking a contour shoulder pad between hanger and suit.

Dresses to be drip-dried will come out more smoothly, according to another report, if hung on padded hangers, zippers closed and buttons buttoned.

THE "WHERE" of drip drying can be a problem. In moderate weather, a line strung in a quiet, shady place works the best for me. (Hangers have to be pinned or secured to the line so they won't slip off.)

If a utility room or basement is to be the drying room, an investment in a shallow pan to catch the drips protects the floor. A bathtub or shower stall is a logical spot to use, if you can rig up a line or bar to support the hanger.

Experience is the best teacher as to the effectiveness of drip drying some blends and special-finished fabrics.

I have blended fiber shirts in my weekly laundry that require about the same amount of ironing whether they're drip-dried, line-dried or tumble-dried.

I ALSO HAVE boys' suits and Bermuda shorts that can take the full machine cycle, tumble dry and scarcely show a wrinkle.

One major manufacturer of crease-resistant cottons has found that normal washing and drying procedures are as satisfactory as specialized handling.

OF THOSE machine washables that do benefit from drip drying and no final spin, it's a help to wash as many together as possible.

That way, you don't have to fish through the rinse water to rescue one dress from the other laundry. I don't, however, wash white clothing of man-made fibers with colored clothing.

And, if I have only one or two small drip-dries in the laundry, I pretreat the soiled areas and stains with extra care.

I then put them into a mesh bag before adding to the general laundry load, which makes them easier to pull out of the water before the spin cycle.

G. O. P. CONVENTION OPENS

TV viewers and radio listeners will enjoy this description of the opening of the National Convention of the Republican Party at San Francisco Monday as written by one of our special Associated Press correspondents on the spot, Saul Pett:

The Republican National Convention opened yesterday with a steal from Ted Lewis.

"Is everyone happy?" boomed National Chairman Leonard Hall from the speaker's platform.

"Yes," the audience roared back.

That about concluded debate for the day.

The evening session was no less exciting.

Actor Wendell Corey was master of ceremonies. He introduced the music and the flag demonstrations and then, with a flourish, as though the crowd had never met him before, he announced, "Ladies and Gentlemen, the chairman of the Republican National Committee—Leonard W. Hall."

Big, bald Hall came down the ramp, beaming. As he spoke, he became an interesting study in self-confidence. He talked easily, almost languidly, with his hands in the pockets of his television-blue suit. It was a gentle sales talk. No sweat, no strain.

He spoke of the greatness of President Eisenhower and Vice President Nixon, whose pictures, each 10 by 20 feet, hang from one end of the hall. There are no other pictures there.

"There is nothing we need say about Adlai Stevenson that Kefauver hasn't already said," Hall said to laughing approval. "There is nothing that we need say about the Stevenson-Kefauver ticket that Harry Truman hasn't already said."

Gov. Arthur Langlie of Washington, as keynote speaker, was an interesting contrast to Gov. Frank G. Clement of Tennessee, the Democratic keynote. In effect, it was like the difference between warm Ovaltine and corn liquor.

Langlie got his share of applause but he didn't set the hall on fire. He used none of the thunder and oratorical calisthenics displayed by Clement. Langlie was no spell-binder. He was more like a high school history teacher, earnest, neat, orderly.

THE QUEEN'S LACE

Says an editorial in The New York Times:

It's the wild carrot which frills the fencerows with white, lacy heads now, and its fine-cut, bright green foliage is almost the color of that of the tame carrots in the garden. The root, however, is very different, tough and bitter and not at all tasty. Some call the flower Queen Anne's lace, paying tribute to the flat-topped heads of florets, dainty as fine lace and pretty enough to deck a queen. And some call it bird's nest, because as the flower heads ripen into seeds the stems curl upward and form a cup-shaped basket much like a bird's nest.

In the center of most wild carrot flower clusters one finds a single purple floret, the jewel or the amethyst, as it is often called. Some casual observers use this purple floret as their means of differentiating between the wild carrot and the somewhat similar flower head of the yarrow, but it is an unreliable index. Some wild carrots have no "jewel." And the yarrow heads are looser and the bloom has a grayish tinge, while the wild carrot is not clear white. And the foliage of the two plants is quite different.

The wild carrot is a weed, but it carries a royal name. Which Anne it was named for seems doubtful. Anne of Brittany was Queen of France, Anne of Denmark became the wife of James I of England, Anne of Austria became the wife of France's Louis XIII and James II's daughter. Anne married Prince George of Denmark and became Britain's Queen. All wore lace, of course, the finest lace of their time and to have been named for any of them would have been a high tribute. But a queen's lace now decorates the roadside and the queen herself is forgotten. "Vanity of vanities... all is vanity."

Here and There

An Associated Press dispatch stating that the New York Central Railroad has put up for sale hundreds of passenger stations strung along its 10,700-mile system, recalls the historic depot on the "Dolly Varden" that stood at the northwest corner of Fourth avenue and Laurel street for over a half century before it was torn down some ten or fifteen years ago. In that old depot many notables at some time or other approached the "window" to buy tickets. It was also the scene of many happy and sorrowful occasions down through the years, and we remember once upon a time there was a bold hold-up by armed bandits that had all the earmarks of a western thriller. The dispatch from New York says President Alfred E. Pealman has announced the Central will lease back whatever station space it needs for operations. He added that sale of the station properties, which range from big terminals to the smallest branch line way station, would have no effect on the quality of rail service. The Central said the decision to sell its passenger station buildings was made in an effort to reduce its passenger deficit, which it figured at $37,788,353 for last year. A substantial part of this sum, says for maintenance and taxes on the railroad's extensive terminal properties, a company statement claimed. Pearlman said the Central was ready to consider any proposal for sale or long-term lease of 406 different stations. He said the only stations excluded from the offer are those in Manhattan and those not wholly owned by the Central.

July 12 was a very costly day for two men who held the game law and the fish law of Pennsylvania lightly, says Game Protector Fred Servey, St. Marys. He reports that, "On that date boys saw two men shooting fish with a 22 rifle. The boys reported the incident to a nearby Deputy Game Protector who apprehended the culprits. Before the investigation was completed it was learned the fish shooters had killed a deer days earlier, using the same gun and shooting from an automobile. "Later, two hearings were held, one on the fish violation and one on the game violation. In each instance the defendants were found guilty and heavy fines were imposed."

A Farm and Home Safety news release from the Department of Public Instruction, Bureau of Adult, Vocational and Practical Arts Education Farm and Home Safety Education, Harrisburg, says a "stuck" farm tractor is a danger trap. It can "climb on the gears" and tip over backward if the rear wheels get tightly mired, says

Burtin S. Horne, Penn State Extension Agricultural Engineer and member of the farm safety committee of the Pennsylvania Rural Safety Council. Don't try to move a tractor forward when it's sunk down in soft ground, says Horne. Instead, try to back out. Then the tractor can't "rear up." If that doesn't work, either dig the tractor out or pull it out with another tractor. Horne lists a number of "safety pointers" to keep in mind at all times: 1. Don't use the wheel brakes for fast turns. That makes the tractor more apt to tip over. 2. Watch out for holes, stumps and large stones—especially on hillsides. Tractors have a high center of gravity. 3. Be careful on the turns when you're pulling a harrow or disk. If you turn too short, the towed implement can catch on the rear wheel, pull up on the tractor, and strike the driver. 4. Take a five-minute break every hour or so. It's easy to get in a "trance" while operating a tractor.

All in All, the Democrats' Convention Was Pretty Dull

BY PETER EDSON

NEA Washington Correspondent

CHICAGO—(NEA)—Streamlined phooey. If the Republican convention at San Francisco doesn't produce a better show than the Democratic business in Chicago, maybe the whole thing ought to be abandoned.

This Democratic convention was supposed to have never a dull moment. It didn't, in Harry Truman's greater combined downtown shows. But out at the stockyards it was pretty banal and boring. The five-day program could have been cut to two without hurting a thing.

The Republican show is scheduled for four days. But from the advance notices, it could all be done in a quiet evening.

These political conventions aren't run for the delegates, anyway. They are run for TV audiences.

BUT NOT EVEN Cecil B. DeMille could stage-manage a spectacular that would hold an audience as long as these political conventions are drawn out.

The second day's proceedings at Chicago produced the all-time low. That was when they had Ladies' Day matinee and half a dozen speeches at night. Only Speaker Sam Rayburn's was worth listening to.

The women's program played to an almost empty convention hall. But it was rated a TV success because it appealed to women voters as they did their Tuesday ironing at home.

Then there was that horrible Wednesday night five-and-a-half-hour performance. The first two and a half hours were devoted to an interminable concert from an invisible band and an unmusical address from Oklahoma's Bob Kerr. He didn't captivate the audience but they were held captive nevertheless.

THE CONVENTION BOSSES wanted to hold off consideration of the controversial civil rights platform until everybody was good and tired. That way the delegates would be more submissive to rubber-stamping the proceedings so they could go back to their hotels and bed.

Most of the audience had already done that. The galleries were practically empty when Chairman John McCormack brought up the civil rights plank at 12:45 a.m. Most of the TV audience had probably turned in too, except maybe the west coast. So it was an entertainment turkey.

Why do politicians persist in doing these things to people? And why does the public stand for it?

But the delegates, bless 'em, had stuck it out gamely. They were all there for the last half-hour of real drama which ended with the vote at 1:40 a.m.

During the two-and-a-half-hour reading of the platform and during most of the speeches, few people paid the slightest attention to what was being beaten into their ears over the loud speakers. Background noise was terrific. It was utter confusion and complete frustration.

CHICAGO BOSS JAKE ARVEY, scheduled for a speech on opening day, was the only man in the whole place who sized up the situation correctly. He walked up to the rostrum, smiled, waved his arm, uttered, "What's the use?" and walked away without saying a word.

In the whole week, the Democrats discovered only two ways to make 11,000 people shut up.

One was to show 'em a movie with sound track—Sen. Jack Kennedy's documentary on Democratic history.

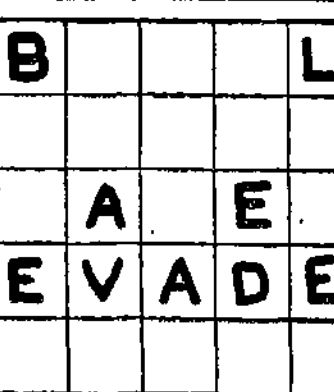

The second was to employ an orator who could make more noise than 5,300 delegates and alternates plus 5,700 spectators and a brass band, and let him out-shout them.

MRS. EUGENE MICHAEL PASTRICK

Our Lady of the Lake Catholic church at Conneaut Lake was the setting for a lovely wedding Saturday, August 18, when Patricia Louise, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Cox of Conneaut Lake Park, became the bride of Eugene Michael Pastrick, son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael G. Pastrick of Warren RD 2.

The Rev. Father Toland, performed the double ring ceremony and celebrated the nuptial mass at 9:00 a. m. before an altar simply decorated with white gladioli. Wedding music was provided by Mrs. Gertrude Meisner, organist, and Gordon Odmark of Warren, vocalist and fraternity brother of the bridegroom.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was gowned in pointe Queen Anne lace and tulle over satin, the matching jacket having a small imperial collar and long sleeves, the bouffant waltz length skirt having a front panel of pleated tulle. Tiers of illusion veiling were secured by a winged, jeweled cap and her flowers were a spray of stephanotis, ivy and carnations.

Marilyn Pastrick, sister of the bridegroom and maid of honor, wore waltz length pink taffeta, with dusty rose inset and bustle. Her headband was of pink straw feathers and her bouquet was fashioned of pink carnations encircled with white stephanotis.

Benjamin Pastrick served his brother as best man and ushers were William Baer, Pittsburgh, and Charles Mullen, McKeesport, fraternity brothers of Mr. Pastrick.

Wearing pink carnation corsages, Mrs. Cox chose a navy and white frock with navy accessories; Mrs. Pastrick wore white accessories with a light blue outfit.

The wedding breakfast for 30 guests followed in the Hotel Conneaut Sun Room, where pink and white carnations fashioned an attractive table.

For the reception in the church basement at 1:00 p. m., pink and white carnations were repeated in floral decorations and a three-tiered wedding cake was featured. Aides were Mrs. William J. Tarr, Mrs. Arden Smith, Conneaut Lake; Mrs. Russell Eitten and Margaret Impronzo, Pittsburgh.

The guest list of 150 included relatives and friends from Salamanca, N. Y.; Summit, N. J.; Grove City, Pittsburgh, Franklin, Oil City, Warren, Waynesburg.

For a wedding trip to West Virginia, the bride chose a two piece brown cotton suit, brown and white accessories, and corsage of pink and white carnations.

Returning, the couple will be at home after September 1st at 125 West Washington boulevard, Grove City, where Mr. Pastrick is an electrical engineering major at Grove City College. He is a graduate of Warren High School and served four years with the Air Force. His bride, a 1955 graduate of Grove City College, taught the past year at Conneaut Lake Area Joint High School and will be a member of the Mercer High School faculty in the coming term.

CHAPMAN DAM PICNIC

Plans were under way for the August YMCA Family Night to be held at Chapman Dam August 23 at 6:00 o'clock, when all members of the family are welcome and should have an enjoyable outing as the committee has prepared an interesting program.

Families will provide their own picnic supper, with the YMCA furnishing dessert for those who have mailed or telephoned in their reservations by Wednesday. For those who desire to "cook it in the rough", there will be plenty of fireplaces handy and an ample supply of fuel.

The evening will be climaxed by a council type campfire, when songs, games and stunts will be enjoyed by the entire group. Highlights of the program will be a special presentation of a unique playlet by members of the YMCA Adventure Club.

SUCCESSFUL SUPPER

A benefit supper, sponsored by the adult Sunday school classes of the Chandeliers Valley Evangelical United Brethren church and open to all interested persons in the Valley area, was held at the church Friday night as a benefit for the Oviatt family of Spartansburg.

Through this supper, a gift of money was raised to assist with the hospitalization and care of the two Oviatt children, Nancy and Roger, who were seriously injured recently.

Persons who were unable to attend the supper, but would like to contribute to the fund, may give their gifts to the Rev. Meredith Swift or Mrs. Jane Gage at Chandeliers Valley.

Silver Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd W. Sumner, Akeley, celebrated their silver wedding anniversary with open house at their home on August 12 for many relatives and friends. The Sumners were married August 13, 1931, in Falconer, N. Y., by the late Rev. Neathery, with Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Smith as their attendants.

The anniversary buffet table was laid with a lace cloth and centered with a three-tiered wedding cake, baked by a former neighbor, Mrs. Claude Haller. Silver candles were in silver holders which Mrs. Sumner's mother received on her anniversary 22 years ago, and a lovely arrangement of red rosebuds and silver leaves completed the appointments.

Mrs. Eva Gage, Mrs. Charles Gage, Jr., and Mrs. Glenn Johnson served; Mrs. Larry Hale poured in the afternoon, the couple's daughter, Mrs. Evelyn Sumner, in the evening; while Mrs. Lynn Sadler managed the guest book during the afternoon, and Miss Brenda Gage was in charge during the evening. Mrs. Betty Dufresne wrote an original poem for the couple and this was read.

Mrs. Sumner, the former Grace Gage and daughter of Mrs. Eva Gage and the late Charles O. Gage, welcomed her guests in a gown of blue, with which she wore a corsage of pink carnations.

The honored ones received a variety of gifts and a purse of money, along with many cards. They have two children, William and Evelyn, living at home, who, along with Mr. and Mrs. Sumner's mother, brothers, sisters, and families, made it a day long to be remembered.

Y., with only two members absent, Beverly and Jim Mathis of Warren. A bountiful dinner was served on the spacious lawn at the rear of the home, thus taking advantage of the unusual sunshine so much appreciated by all.

A short business session was conducted by President Paul Mathis, with Historian O. R. Pang reading his report for the year. Officers for the coming two years are Miss Sylvia Fosberg, president, and Mr. Pang, historian. The place and time for next year's reunion were left for later decision. Rev. A. L. Pang gave a few remarks and read two poems he had written in years gone by.

Maturity Choosing Colors

BY ALICIA HART
NEA Beauty Editor

WHAT colors are proper for a mature woman to wear? This question often gets asked and, like so many questions that bear on individual characteristics, there is no one answer.

Often one feels that a woman who asks such a question is seeking an answer such as "lavender and black" that will remove from her the necessity of making choices when buying clothes. One feels she seeks an answer that will allow her to go straight to the proper clothes rack and select clothes without thought or effort.

Some mature women are of such coloration and shape that they can wear blazing red without looking unsuitable. Others are of such coloring that plain black is the worst choice possible.

Certainly, if one is a dignified person and one's reserve has increased with the years, dignified colors are in order. But this doesn't mean all black. Black-and-white is nice. So is all-white. So are the chocolatey browns and the desert colors.

Colors that look well with one's changing skin coloration are good choices. Colors that wear well are good. When one is young, one may have a closet of clothes divided between the flamboyant and the subdued.

But as a woman grows older, she probably dresses less by mood than by standards of good taste. The colors tend to represent all-round becomingness, not just becomingness for days when one feels good or bad.

FORTUNATELY for most women, the days of having to pretend one has extra-small feet are past.

There was a time when it was a matter of beauty to be able to stuff one's foot into a 5 1/2 triple-A. Now the expectation is more reasonable: A good-sized woman has a good-sized foot.

But still the matter of fit goes beyond size. One woman may find that the shoes of a certain manufacturer are cut according to her foot peculiarities. Another may find that these shoes don't fit her at all.

Shopping for shoes should be done with care and when there is lots of time. A pair of shoes can't be bought like a pair of gloves—in a minute. The fit should be for length, for width and for that feeling of comfort when shoes fit just right.

If there still be a woman who feels being able to tell a clerk she wears size five automatically makes her beautiful, she should look carefully at her feet in the shoes and at her walk, too.

The walk of a woman wearing too-small shoes is not beautiful. It's hobbled and uncomfortable. The flesh of her feet bulges out of her shoes and her bare feet soon begin to show the penalties of unfitted shoes.

In one sense, beauty begins at the feet. And if it's not well-insured there, no cosmetics are going to remedy the matter.

Good Exercise for Children Can Be Spelled WORK

AN expert on physical fitness claims that American children aren't physically active enough and suggests our children be given more physical exercise in schools.

Another solution might be to see that our kids get a little more physical exercise around home.

Why should any family with half-grown children hire all the yard work done, when pushing a lawn mower, pulling weeds, digging holes for shrubs, etc., is all excellent exercise?

Why should Mama hop in the car to chauffeur Junior anywhere he wants to go that is more than a block from home?

Why should having a perfect lawn have become so important that lots of kids living in suburban houses with big yards don't have a place to play baseball or football because Mom and Pop don't want any bare spots on the front lawn?

TV CAN BE SHUT OFF

WHY isn't the modern kid ever sent six blocks to the grocery store the way the older kids in a family used to be relied upon for errand running?

Why do so few kids walk to and from school these days, even when the distance isn't great? We say it is because of traffic hazards but after school a lot of these same children play in the streets.

Why do so many parents moan that they can't get Junior to play outside in the summer because he would rather sit in front of the TV set hour after hour? The thing can be turned off, can't it?

Let's not blame the schools if our kids aren't giving their muscles enough of a daily work-out. Exercise for kids and teen-agers should begin at home and there's no reason why some of it can't be spelled WORK.

1st Degree Manslaughter Charged at Mayville, N. Y.

A special dispatch from Little Valley, N. Y., in the Jamestown Sun says: Henry Meacham, 46, of Hen Coop Hollow, Town of Mansfield, has been charged with first degree manslaughter in the death of Robert Dash, 41-year-old farmer and father of seven children, Cattaraugus County Sheriff Morgan L. Sigel said Monday night. Dash worked on a farm for Meacham's brother.

In a statement secured by the Sheriff's Department Monday night, Meacham said that he got up at 5:30 A. M. Sunday and found Dash on a couch at the Dash home, holding a 22 calibre rifle and saying he was going to shoot somebody. Meacham said he grappled with Dash for the rifle, the weapon went off and the slug hit Dash in the forehead, killing him.

Police said that when Meacham reported the shooting to them he claimed he had found Dash dead Sunday morning, a bullet wound in his head and the rifle in his arms. Sheriff's men found the rifle in a clothes closet with one shell fired. They said the gun was owned by Meacham.

Meacham was taken to Buffalo for lie detector tests Monday. Following further questioning by the Sheriff's Department late Monday afternoon, he changed his story and admitted the shooting, officers said.

WALL CAVE-IN FATAL

Pittsburgh, (P)—John Tovlin, 55, of Duquesne, was killed last night in a wall cave-in. Tovlin was helping to erect a garage near his home.

Nixon at a caucus today.

Several others, including Gov. Christian A. Herter of Massachusetts, said their names won't be placed in nomination.

Stassen, on leave as Eisenhower's disarmament assistant, continued to insist he had a 50-50 chance to replace Nixon. He said delegates were hearing from the home folks.

If they were, many leaders said the messages must be in favor of Nixon—the mention of whose name brought lusty cheering at yesterday's opening convention sessions.

Gov. Arthur B. Langlie of Washington, the convention keynote, reaffirmed his support of Nixon.

Eisenhower's decision to arrive here a day earlier than originally scheduled was generally accepted by convention leaders as evidence of his belief in his physical fitness to take command of a new GOP "crusade"—his word for the 1952 campaign.

Eisenhower's appearance here is calculated to afford a chance to meet with him to some delegates who otherwise would see him only when he makes his acceptance speech at Thursday night's closing session.

Sen. Styles Bridges of New Hampshire, a supporter of Nixon proposed that Stassen's name be submitted to the convention in opposition to Nixon. The outcome seemed likely to be a one-sided Nixon victory. Stassen has insisted he doesn't want the vice presidential nomination ever.

The first sessions of the convention moved through their assigned television hours yesterday, mostly on the theme of familiar GOP oratory.

In today's session, Rep. Joseph W. Martin Jr. of Massachusetts, the House minority leader, takes over the gavel as permanent chairman of the convention.

The platform, which was described by its drafters as generally stronger on civil rights than that produced by the Democrats in Chicago last week, was up for adoption.

California's Governor Throws Convention Party

San Francisco (P)—Republicans went partying last night and forgot their few differences in a swirl of evening dress, music, champagne and crab newburg.

White-gloved waiters met guests at the door with a glass of champagne—California made, of course—when Gov. and Mrs. Goodwin J. Knight entertained some 8,000 Republicans here for their national convention.

Vice President Richard M. Nixon shook hands with presidential aid Harold E. Stassen, the man who wants to replace Nixon on the GOP ticket with Gov. Christian A. Herter of Massachusetts. Herter was there too.

A life-sized elephant made of fresh chrysanthemums revolved on a stand in the middle of the dance floor at Civic Auditorium.

FARM NEWS

Be Extra Careful—In the rush to get all the work done during the busy summer, Pennsylvania farmers are urged by John Walker, Penn State extension agricultural engineer, to be especially careful. Stop machinery before making any adjustments, keep guards in place, and do not play the role of cowboy while driving the tractor.

Control Weeds—One control of weeds that may be forgotten is that of fertilizing legume and grass fields right after the first cutting, reminds George Berggren, Penn State extension agronomist. The fertilizer stimulates rapid growth of grasses and legumes to compete with any weeds that are present.

Treat for Worms—A mixture for ewes and lambs to keep stomach worms under control is recommended by Frank Kreuzberger, Penn State extension livestock specialist. Mix one part of phenothiazine with nine parts of salt. Keep this mixture before lambs and ewes all the time. Also, rotate pasture as often as you can.

Clean the Pens—Having trouble with flies around the barn? Henry Menusan, Penn State extension entomologist, suggests removing a breeding place by keeping the calf and bull pens clean. He says there is no substitute for cleanliness.

Stop Tomato Rot—You can help control tomato fruit rots by mulching, staking, and spraying with recommended fungicides, says Allen Bauer, Penn State extension plant pathologist.

Speed Hay Curing—A hay crusher cracks the stems lengthwise, thus hastening the curing process, reminds John Walker, Penn State extension agricultural engineer.

NOVEL RABBIT HUTCH

Harrisburg (P)—The Pennsylvania Game Commission reports it has found at least one way to put an old home to new uses. Donald G. Gay, Susquehanna county game protector, reported coming upon a nest of young rabbits turned out of their home by a passing plow. He secured an old snapping turtle shell, filled it with chaff and replaced the bunnies in their new hard-shell home. Mrs. Rabbit cooperated, Gay reported. She stayed with her young until they were old enough to fend for themselves.

Geese, timed by airplane speedometer, can travel at 80 miles per hour, and they have an altitude record of 20,000 feet.

in the world — in the air — on the sea — and a magnificent supporting land force in our Army and Marine Corps."

Besides the promise to cut personal income taxes the GOP plank pledged to initiate "a sound policy of tax reductions" for small independent business to encourage it to modernize and achieve progress.

The platform gave approval to the Eisenhower policy of developing water power resources under a partnership arrangement with government and private interests. Democrats claimed that this policy has worked to the interest of big concerns.

Republican platform drafters avoided, as did the Democrats, charting much new ground on the racial problem.

Support was expressed for the Supreme Court decision which outlawed segregation by race in the public schools. But nothing concrete was stated in the way of how the court decision is to be enforced.

The Republican farm plank declared that farmers have confidence in President Eisenhower

THEY AGREE ON DICK—Vice President Richard Nixon, right, and Mrs. Nixon, left, chat with Gov. and Mrs. Christian A. Herter of Massachusetts at a Massachusetts state caucus in San Francisco. Herter, scheduled to renominate Nixon, promises to withdraw if Harold Stassen, leader of the "dump Nixon" movement, puts Herter's name in nomination for the vice presidency.

PRESSURE ON BUMS, REDLEGS AS MILWAUKEE PLAYS IT COOL

By ED WILKS
The Associated Press

Nobody's won the pennant yet in that hectic National League race, but as of today the pressure definitely is on Brooklyn and Cincinnati while the first-place Milwaukee Braves, loaded with the best pitching in the league, play it cool behind Burdette, Spahn and Buhl.

Those three top NL's earned run averages. Low Burdette's managed to knock off Cincinnati's contending Redlegs four times without defeat. Bob Buhl has beaten Brooklyn's world champion Dodgers six times without a loss.

Warren Spahn and Burdette combined to salvage an important split in the four-game series at Cincinnati. Spahn quieted the ambitious Redlegs Sunday, then came back in relief to get the final out as Burdette beat them 3-1 on a five-hitter last night.

The Braves lack the Redlegs' power, but they again made their blows pay off in the series finale, riding in on home runs by Ed Matthews and Joe Adcock although

Roaring Bombshells Will Race Wednesday at Oval

From all appearances, it would seem that area racing fans have been longing for the "thrills and spills" that are a part of modified or "Sportsman Class" stock car racing. The modest, but very enthusiastic crowd that attended the opener at the Skyline Speedway last Wednesday evening have been very high in their praise of the show of speed and action that they saw here.

They witnessed extremely fast racing duels as well as numerous spin-outs and roll overs, and found that there was never a dull moment as these high powered juggernauts roared in and out of the turns and down straight-aways.

A large field of the "Roaring Bombshells" is expected to compete at this Sugar Grove oval this Wednesday evening, at 8:30 p. m. and will include such well known drivers from Pennsylvania, Ohio and New York, as last week's feature winner Ted Wise, who hails from Hubbard, Ohio; Kenny Johnson, of Jamestown, N. Y.; Tom Betts, current MARC National point leader, from Kinsman, Ohio; C. E. Crockton, Columbus; Jim Patrick, the Conneaut, Ohio speedster who is point leader at Skyline in the Late Model Division; Carl Huff, Cherry Tree; George Semler, Sharpville; Bud Schnars, Bush, N. Y.; Gib Orr, Orwell, Ohio; Art Anderson, Jamestown, N. Y.; Dave Shaw, Sugar Grove; Roland Stuart, Conneaut, Ohio and many others.

For the "tops" in auto racing, the Skyline Speedway is the place to go, where you will see the Modified on Wednesday night and the Late Models on Sunday evening.

Burdette Breaks All Pitching Rules In Book: Tebbets

Cincinnati, (P)—Low Burdette, adgely ace of Milwaukee's vaunted pitching staff, was accused by Burdie Tebbets today of violating every pitching rule in the book as he beat the Cincinnati Redlegs for the fourth time this season 3-1 last night.

The free-speaking Redleg manager was fairly fuming as he told newsmen "there isn't a pitching rule Burdette doesn't break. He spits on the ball, he spits on his glove, he spits on his hand, he rubs rosin on his glove and he rubs the ball on his uniform. All these things are in direct violation of rule 8.02. Yet the umpires let him get away with all those things."

Three times Tebbets rushed out from the dugout to complain to the umpires about Burdette's tactics last night. Each time, Plate Umpire Bill Engeln, together with Larry Goetz, first-base umpire, examined the ball, demanded to look at Burdette's glove and even had the pitcher take off his cap. But they didn't find any indication Lew was throwing a spitter.

Burdette seemed bored by the search.

"I'd even take off my pants if they wanted me to," said the smiling right-hander after the game. "Know what I think Burdie was just trying to rattle me. He's majored in psychology, you know."

Rams Demand Minimum Wage for Exhibitions

Los Angeles, (P)—The intervention of National Football League Commissioner Bert Bell has helped avert a possible Los Angeles player boycott of Friday's exhibition game here between the Los Angeles Rams and the Cleveland Browns.

Ram players had demanded $75 a week for veterans and $50 weekly for rookies during the exhibition season, whereas the Los Angeles club never has paid salaries until after the first league game. Ram player representatives told General Manager Tex Schramm they didn't intend to play exhibition games unless they were paid for them. The Rams, who won their division title last year, open their NFL season Sept. 30.

Bell called the Rams' player representatives at their Redlands camp and asked them to delay any reprisal in connection with their money demands, saying he would speak with club owners.

Certs Return To Win Trail, 16 to 5; Guffs Suff Defeat

It was nip and tuck between Certified Electric and Guffres in early innings last night before the roof fell in and a Cert's spurt found the league leaders ahead at the final out, 16-5.

Score was knotted at 2-all in the second and 4-even in the fourth before the vaunted scoring ability of Certified asserted itself. The team scored four times in the sixth and finished strong with five big runs in the ninth.

Fischer poked a homer for his lone hit, but scrambled across the plate for five runs. Bartholomew got three hits in four trips for Certified, hitting a double and scoring four times.

Bell tripled for Certs while Massa and Whittaker doubled. E. Tannier hit a two-bagger for Guffres. Guffs got ten hits off Sigworth and Sorensen. Perowski gave up a dozen to the victors.

Nashua Recovering From Second Bilious Attack

Saratoga Springs, N. Y., (P)—Nashua, the millionaire colt insured for more money than most people make in a lifetime, was resting comfortably in his stall today after an attack of colic.

His 82-year-old trainer, Sunny Jim Fitzsimmons, still held out hope that he would be able to start in the Saratoga handicap Saturday. The decision will be made tomorrow.

"It's as simple as this," said Mr. Fitz. "If I can't work him out tomorrow, you'll know he won't run in the handicap Saturday. Right now, I still don't know just how he will feel."

"But I'm going to do whatever I think is best for Nashua. Nothing else will be considered."

Nashua, insured for $1,251,200 at a premium of $50,048 a year, was stricken yesterday for the second time in 10 days. A week ago last Saturday, he had to be scratched from the $100,000 Atlantic City Handicap for the same ailment.

Mr. Fitz was puzzled over Nashua's two illnesses.

"He's never been really sick," he said. "We know something's wrong with him when he paws at the floor of his stall and acts restless."

Football Practice Will Start Monday At Northern Area

Northern Area Knights kickoff football season preparations this Friday evening when practice equipment will be distributed.

The equipment will be issued at the old high school building in Sugar Grove, where team hopefuls will hold evening practice sessions until school opens at the new building.

Initial practice session starts at 6:30 p. m. Monday, August 27. Knights open their season September 15 at Sheffield.

Coaches Norge Luvison and Fred Bauer have commented that the Knights lost several first string players at graduation and stars such as Tom Knapp, Elmer Welch and Ed Orcutt would be hard to replace.

Experienced linemen returning this year include Dave Rockwell, Larry Welch, Merle Wightman, Fred McKinney, John Penney, Leslie Devereaux. Sparking the backfield will be Sherwood Olsen, Bud Rowland, Bob McCoy and Jim Darts.

The coaches are also hopeful of welding into the varsity team fabric a composition from last year's junior varsity and junior high school players.

Modzelewski Falls on Everything But Face as Giants Whip Colts, 28-10

Boston, (P)—A healthy Dick Modzelewski can go a long way toward strengthening the defensive line of the New York Football Giants.

Little Mo took matters into his own hands last night to launch the Giants toward a 28-10 triumph over Baltimore before 21,000 at Boston University field in a National Football League competition.

With the Giants trailing 10-7 in the second period, Modzelewski, acquired in a recent deal to strengthen the New York tackles, fell on a fumble at the Colts' 26.

In four plays, New York scored what proved to be the winning touchdown as Alex Webster boomed 9 yards into the end zone.

Modzelewski recovered another fumble early in the third period and when Don Chandler missed a field goal, Modzelewski took charge again.

Baltimore earlier had defeated Philadelphia, 24-13.

Tex Gonzales May Get a Main Garden Bout

New York, (P)—Crowd-pleasing Tony (Tex) Gonzales, may be in line for a Madison Square Garden main event as the result of his decision triumph over Italy's Fernando Spallotta.

The free-swinging, 23-year-old East Orange, N. J. middleweight, racked up his third straight victory last night on a unanimous 10-round decision at St. Nicholas Arena.

Williamsport, (P)—A field of veteran Little League teams and new challengers squared off today for the opening of the 10th annual Little League World Series.

Four of the eight teams were in the World Series last year, something that has never happened before. But, ironically, the 1955 champion, Morrisville, Pa., was eliminated in preliminary competition.

All of the teams will be contending through the week for the world baseball championship among boys between 8 and 12 years of age. They are the cream of more than 4,000 franchised teams in every state but South Carolina and in a dozen foreign countries.

WITH OUR BOYS AT INDIANTOWN GAP

Third Battalion, 112th Infantry Regiment—Thursday, August 16, 1956:

A visit to the training of the Pioneer and Ammunition Personnel with the 105th Engineer Battalion shows that the first two days were spent on demolitions, the third day was spent in the technique of constructing pontoon rafts large enough to transport trucks, and today they were learning how to handle infantry support rafts and practicing assault landings on the beach. Third Battalion men attending this training are: M/Sgt. Fitch, SFC Imbrogno, Sgt. Erickson, Cpl. Erickson, SFC Ferragino, all of Johnsonburg, Pfc. Gunnerson of Ridgway, and Pvt. Swanson of Kersey.

Lt. Gen. Gather of the Army Field Forces inspected training in the Third Battalion areas today. It looks like the Third Battalion is setting quite a mark for itself here at camp and all visitors make it a point to see what a good job we are doing.

A fire broke out in the Hq. Co.—Co. L Kitchen this morning and the quick action of the mess steward, SFC Viglione, and his cooks put the fire out before the fire department arrived and averted a more serious fire. A gasoline burner for a field range sprung a leak and burned very rapidly but no damage was done to the building. The previous fire drill training held here has already paid off.

In the regimental retreat parade our Third Battalion again showed its spirit and ability by being judged the best battalion in the line of march and it was announced that the 112th Infantry

Epstein's Begins Repairs Of Carver Fire Damage

Sam H. Epstein of 410 Pennsylvania avenue, west, has begun a $13,500 repair project on the outside walls and interior of his building which was damaged during the Hotel Carver fire in late April.

The east brick wall which was next to the hotel is now coming down and a new one shall be constructed. Repairs will also be made to the front of the building. A new roof and interior repairs are also planned.

Other projects currently underway in the borough call for construction of a six by 12-foot $1,000 addition to the M. L. Parker property on 14 Biddle street. Elmer Elmquist of 311 Frank street is expending some $200 to replace the present small windows of a sun porch with a large picture window.

Father Edward J. Flanagan started Boys' Town at Omaha, Neb., in 1917.

CRAWFORD CO. QUEEN

Cedie Lavada Martin, lovely and vivacious Titusville blonde easily recognized by her pony tail hairdo, was crowned Miss Crawford County of 1956 early today before a county fair crowd of more than 6,000. The stunning 19-year-old daughter of Mrs. Jessie Martin of 417 N. Monroe St. won over 36 contestants in the chilling pageant which was climaxed by her crowning at 12:30 a. m. today. Patricia DeLoss, 15, of 753 Rawley, Ave., Meadville, was the winner of the Miss "Junior Miss" contest. Miss Martin, a receptionist at the Colonel Drake Hotel, indicated her future would not be changed by the honor. "I like it there (at the hotel)," she said. Physicians Report Public Apathy On Polio Immunization

Public apathy is held responsible by officers of several county medical societies in Pennsylvania for the comparatively low percentage of children in their areas who have been immunized with Salk anti-polio vaccine.

Alarmed by reports that sixteen counties in the state are well below the state average of immunization with Salk vaccine, Dr. F. F. Lucchesi of Philadelphia, chairman of the Committee on Preventive Medicine and Public Health of The Medical Society of the State of Pennsylvania, has asked the physicians in these counties to endeavor to raise the level of immunization during the summer months.

In all of the replies received to date, the officers of the county societies have expressed the area doctors' willingness to cooperate with the State Medical Society and the State Health Department, but they report "our biggest problem is public apathy."

"Obviously the polio immunization program needs a more extensive campaign to educate the public," Dr. Lucchesi states. "There is an abundance of vaccine, there are clinics where the immunizations are being given, private physicians have adequate supplies of vaccine, and any patient who needs the vaccine and can't pay for it will be immunized without cost."

Other reasons for the below-average immunizations in certain areas given by Dr. Lucchesi, included slow reporting by physicians of shots given, public hesitancy about having immunization done during the so-called summer epidemic period, and the fact that the areas reporting low immunizations are rural ones where communication and transportation facilities are not of the best.

"Polio vaccine can continue with safety to be given throughout the entire summer," Dr. Lucchesi said. "Dr. Berwyn F. Mattison, Secretary of Health for Pennsylvania has announced there is new evidence to show that the protection afforded during an epidemic period far outweighs the theoretic objections which have been needlessly causing a stop to immunizations in June and during the next few months."
